“ I remember George fondly and extremely well from my days as an adjunct professor of music at Five Towns College. He was an extremely nice guy and very competent at his work there. (Great picture of him, above...just as I remembered him from about a quarter century ago.)

“ When I was a student at five towns college in 1980, George was my Harmony/Theory teacher. I owe him for putting the idea in my head to become a teacher in my head. I thank him for putting in the right direction. He also was an excellent musician along with being a great teacher. I got to work with him years later when we were part of the band that backed Al Martino and Jerry Vale and others famous '50's crooners.

I always tried to model my life after him. Being the best musician I can be while also being the best teacher I can be. I ironically found a teaching job in a Five Towns town and been employed there since 1989. Thank you George for being a difference in my life and thank you for being a role model. Condolences to Paula who was also a great teacher who I studied ear training during my time at 5 towns college. I'm forever grateful to you both.

Please let me know if I can be any help in remembrance of George the future.

Love always
