“Margie as I knew her, was my mother's (Gay Gallaher, married name Harkins) best friend from the shared schooldays. When i was very young, maybe 3, I remember when Irv and Margie visited my parents When we still lived in New York City. There was always a lot of laughter, especially the two women; and lots of silly jokes. Margie was my godmother, too. She and Irv came up to CT periodically via Long Island Sound on their yacht into Old Saybrook docks. Many many year later, I remember really interesting phone conversations with her as an adult about Margie's adoption of Rosicrucianism. Around 2 years ago, I gave my brother Michael my mother's school yearbook with Margi's and her writings and fotos in. Today, brother Kevin and I, while reminiscing on the phone, Margie's name came up and he located this page. I am most sorry that all these years passed when I could have had a relationship with her, but assumed she had died at the common old age of maybe 70 something. I only met her sons once when they were quite small, on one of their visits to CT. I am sad I did assume, and did not at least attempt to contact her-or that she'd contact me. I had so many questions, as my mother died at 38years old and I was 18. Be well, Margie, in your "white blouse with a square neck and a.." (frill), wherever you are.
