“ I have known Paula since high school back in 1969. I remember feeling so comfortable in Paula’s home on Bell Blvd and the Horace Harding Expressway because of Molly and Pauls’ warm personalities. Molly would always ask me how I was doing with a brilliant smile and Paul would talk to me about playing tennis which he knew we both played and liked and I was interested in talking to him about his job with Pan Am airlines. Molly was so easy to speak with and was always conveying positive energy. I will always have such fond memories of Molly and Paul in the teenage years of my life and the times I was in their presence in later years.

“ I met Molly in the summer of 2012. I was lucky to have met her husband Paul, as well. What struck me almost immediately was the way I was greeted by them. The way they made you feel so welcomed...a feeling that is hard to explain. A sort of peace and acceptance. I observed the way Molly and Paul would look at each other with such affection, a relationship that had formed through the many years they were together. I consider myself both lucky and blessed to have met what I would call a marriage made in heaven. Both Molly and Paul were soul mates two people completely happy, in love and are now reunited in heaven. God bless you Molly I will miss you very very much

“ The memories of my family’s life on Lake Drive are replete with the most beautiful memories of Molly.

To be honest, I know Molly would say “Molly and Paul” because one was not complete without the other. A love story for the ages, which will live on for eternity. They are back in each other’s arms now, forevermore.

Molly exuding the sort of character and humanity that is rare in any time. She took life and life’s challenges seriously; she could rally for her family, no matter what she had to deal with . Strong , kind and warm and with stealth strength and energy is how those who knew her, knew her.

On the lighter side, and what I’m thinking of now , is Molly’s giggle. Her laugh was so cute, so infectious, almost child like. And her smile was organic and real.

I remember our Super Bowl parties , especially the Giants’ win, and more than anything I’ll remember and hold close to my heart the friend she was to my mom , at a time in my mom’s life when she was struggling day to day , and Molly would call every morning and hold open the line for however long my mom could speak, A beautiful woman, a life well lived, a legacy of extraordinary worth , a woman of valor .

Love you sweet Molly

I felt like a piece of my heart was torn out when I received the news  about the passing of my dear aunt. I used to look forward to my parents going away on vacation because I too would get to "vacation" ...at Aunt Molly and Uncle Paul's house! I have treasured memories of times we all shared, doing lots of yakking, (maybe even sometimes screaming?!) ....doing even more EATING....but most of all...LAUGHING! The Modugno home exuded love and contentment. It warms my heart to know what a wonderful, happy, life we all shared and that my dear aunt and uncle are now back together again sharing their joy with others in heaven. I will always love and miss you, Aunt Molly and Uncle Paul. Rest in peace together for eternity. Love, Gloria
